JEREMY CALLIHAN, TREASURER, CAL-IPGCA ASSOCIATION

Associate Government Program Analyst
Department of Water Resources

Jeremy Callihan began his career with the State of California as a Student Assistant for the Cal EPA's Waste Board (now Cal-Recycle) in 2002 in the Recycling Market Development Zone Loan Program where he helped input data, filed, helped with meetings, etc.

In 2006 Jeremy was hired full-time as an Assistant Loan Officer. In this position he was responsible for developing loan packets that were presented to the Loan Committee and Board members for businesses that diverted waste from the landfill.

In 2010 he was hired by the Department of Water Resources, into his current position, as an Associate Governmental Program Analyst. He has worked with the State Revolving Loan Program, currently run by the Resources Board, performing Financial Analysis as well as various application processes and invoice reimbursement processes. Currently, he is responsible for budget tracking for another program within the Department and is responsible for his own Program where he reviews and approves applications and invoices for reimbursement.

Jeremy first got involved with the Cal-IPGCA in 2017 as a trainee. In 2018 he came back as an assistant facilitator and became the Board Treasurer of the Association. During the 2019 Cohort Jeremy supported the trainees as a member of the Innovation Force as well as "floating" lead facilitator when absences occurred.

Jeremy holds a Bachelor of Science Degree from California State University Sacramento in Business Administration with a concentration in management.
